

General Considerations for France

- French people are awesome. More friendly people than you will ever believe. The old reputation of rudeness just hasn't been part of our personal experience.
- About 7.28 French Francs to the USD.
- Remember, when we state "no services", it means no services on route. By checking, many small villages don't have services.
- Names and spelling differences between maps, sign posts and city entrances are often somewhat confusing, but add to navigating challenges.
- Very quiet roads for the most part, so enjoy.
- These somewhat longer days allow more time off in London.
- It's summer, plenty of sunlight.

General Considerations for the United Kingdom

- Drive and pedal on the left side of the road. The Pound is worth about .67 to the USD. We usually go the other way, but not in the UK. So, 1 £ is worth about $1.50.
- English again. Signs can be read and people understood (at least better, anyway). Accents can be a challenge and Wales has a very unique language filled with plenty of extra letters.
- It's all in miles throughout the United Kingdom (England, Wales, Northern Ireland and Scotland). Ireland is kilometers, but even references in miles.
- Some familiar foods and others to challenge the pallet. After all, it's been said the English are not known for their culinary prowess.
- The service stations often have great mini-marts, and services will generally be more accessible than on the Continent. Don't think the British are siesta oriented.
- Many yield signs are painted in the street instead of on signs. Stop signs are a rare breed, especially in the city.

General Considerations for Ireland

- Measurements are in miles even though Ireland uses kilometers.
- Continue to ride on the left side of the road.
- The Irish Punt is the currency, worth approximately 1.14 US$ or the USD is 87¢ to the Punt.
- Generally the Irish have fewer and poorer quality signs. Many turns will be unsigned and perhaps create some feelings of uncertainty. Just follow your computer and keep your eyes open.
- Stop signs are used more in Ireland than the UK.
- Rumor has it that an Irish Pint is bigger than an English Pint and that Irish Guinness is much better than English Guinness. Check it out.
- Unlike the UK, Ireland makes use of chipseal, making the roads a little less smooth. Though many of the backroads are wider than in the UK.

Services: Paris has everything and we are in a good location.
Camping: Our host hotel, the Etap, is ideally situated and close to public transportation.. Together they have about 700 rooms and are willing to allocate enough for our group (we were turned down by other large hotels because they didn't want to tie up 125 rooms for our group)-Paris is busy.
Toilets: In each room-seatless, but clean.
Showers: In room.
Dinner: At restaurant close to hotel. Remember, when in Europe, do as the Europeans do.
Breakfast: At restaurant close to hotel.
Tomorrow: Great spot for a layover day, what else can we say.

Day 159 Paris layover day

7-JunWed

Tomorrow: 163.6 kms. Busy for first 25 km, some hills and beautiful riding most of day. Some great back roads. It's great to be back in Europe.

Services:	No services in this tiny town.
Camping:	The Château de Drancourt's is the only four star campground in this region of France and belongs to a unique group of camps organized on château and castle grounds. The campground has a restaurant, 2 bars, a château, swimming pool, golf driving range, etc. Great spot. Even though June is often relatively busy, they are going to set aside an area for our group.
Toilets:	There are about four different bathroom facilities, including one close to our camping area that has at least four toilets and several urinals for men and several toilets for women.
Showers:	At least 12 close to camping area plus several in the other facilities.
Dinner:	Dinner will be at camp from 7:00 to 8:30 pm at the campground.
Breakfast:	Breakfast will be at camp from 6:30 to 8:00 am at the campground.
Tomorrow:	138.3 kms and a return to miles as we cross the English Channel into the UK. Pleasant day of cycling through mostly rural country. It gets busier as we get closer to major cities. Ferry to the White Cliffs of Dover.

Miles Accum

0.1	76.8	STRAIGHT at Westfield Way into Queen Mary College. NOTE: We might actually turn right here for check-in and gear retrieval. Might be car park & luggage unload location.
0.1	76.9	Main Entrance to Queen Mary College on right. Watch for signs. Ask the check-in crew for your room and building assignments.
	76.9	Today's Distance in Miles
	124.6	Today's Distance in Kilometers
	814.6	Total Stage in Miles
	1314.4	Total Stage in Kilometers
	15,433.2	Total Trip Kilometers

Services:	Come on, it's London. Enjoy four nights in the heart of one of the world's greatest cities. Stepney Green Tube entrance is .3 to right of main entrance of campus. Bike shop close to campus.
Camping:	We are lucky to be staying at Queen Mary College, close to the action, just 2.3 miles from London Bridge, for instance. The dorms are set up with five individual private rooms with sinks and mirrors. Each of the "pods" share some common facilities including a toilet, shower, kitchen and small lounge. Because of the college's other group commitments (things are full because of the millennium celebrations), we will be using two or three campus residence buildings.
Toilets:	Common toilet shared by 5 people.
Showers:	Common shower shared by 5 people.
Dinner:	All dinners will be in the college dining facility from 6:00 to 7:30 pm.
Breakfast:	All breakfasts will be in the college dining facility: Sun, Mon, Tue from 8:00 to 9:30 am, and Wed from 6:30 to 8:00 am.
Tomorrow:	Enjoy to the max. Way too much to see and do and share.

Day 170 London layover day

18-Jun Sun

Day 171 London layover day

19-Jun Mon

Day 172 London layover day

20-Jun Tue

Tomorrow:	93.8 miles of rolling (some hills) beautiful terrain. Lots of congestion leaving London for 30 or so miles, then semi-busy to some super quiet lanes to enjoy. Watch for slippery mud and rocks on the smaller roads, particularly after steady and/or heavy rains, which we seem to have had our fair share of.

Services: Bath is often referred to as one of the most beautiful cities in England. It has everything and is an excellent place to bath (or at least soak). It's a short walk to frequent buses that drop you in the middle of the historic action.

Camping: The campground is an excellent facility with a bar, restaurant, small store and nice people.

Toilets: The campground has 2 sets with 12 men's and 12 women's toilets.

Showers: The campground has 2 sets with 10 men's and 10 women's showers.

Dinner: Dinners will be at the campground restaurant from 7:00 to 8:30 pm tonight and tomorrow night.

Breakfast: Breakfast will be at the campground restaurant from 6:30 to 8:00 am.

Tomorrow: Enjoy your day off.

Day 175 Bath layover day

23-Jun Fri

Tomorrow: 59.1 miles of more rolling terrain. Not much flat land in the UK, huh? Cross into Wales, where the terrain gets steeper, especially as we head north. Beautiful terrain.

Services:	A castle and full services in Athlone, a 10 minute walk from camp.
Camping:	We will be camping on one of the Athlone Rugby Football Club's well maintained fields. The clubhouse has a bar that will be available for our use. The club will be replacing this modest facility next year and rebuilding closer to our camping area.
Toilets:	There are about 6 toilets for men and 5 for women in the clubhouse. We are bringing a few portable toilets to augment the club's existing facilities.
Showers:	TK&A showers even though the clubhouse has plenty of gang showers for men and a handful for women.
Dinner:	Dinner will be hosted by the Club from 7:00 to 8:30 pm in the clubhouse.
Breakfast:	Breakfast will be hosted by the Club from 6:30 to 8:00 am in the clubhouse.
Tomorrow:	80.2 miles. Quiet backcountry roads with plenty of rolling terrain.

Services:	Town is 2.5 miles away. The campground is one of the best we have seen for a long time. It has a bar, restaurant, recreation hall, laundry and plenty of room in a scenic area. The Duke of Argyll owns everything you can see for 5 miles, including the campground. The Duke and Duchess of Argyll live in the Inveraray Castle which is open to the public.
Camping:	The Argyll Holiday Park will be a great stay, mostly because the folks who run it are excited about our visit. Ask at check-in for camping details.
Toilets:	There are about 6 separate bathroom facilities throughout the camp, including two close to our camping area. Ask about other locations. The one by the dive shop is the largest in our area.
Showers:	There are about 6 separate shower facilities throughout the camp, including two close to our camping area. Ask about locations.
Dinner:	Dinner will be from 6:30 to 8:00 pm in the recreation hall. The meal will be a traditional Scottish Burn dinner. It will take a couple of hours to eat-traditional Burns can take up to 4 hours to complete. BYOB from store at campground or purchase elsewhere.
Breakfast:	Breakfast will be from 6:30 to 8:00 pm in the recreation hall.
Tomorrow:	73 miles. Beautiful cycling day, mostly flatish, through the Scottish Highlands towards the Loch Ness Monster.
